

With expertise in process automation and artificial intelligence, the customer recognized Exela as a company that successfully applies the same expertise in its DMR solution, digitizing and securely distributing inbound mail. Further, when faced with an immediate need to ensure employee safety through a COVID-19 testing program, the customer turned to Exela's expertise in inventory management and distribution. In addition to business continuity, DMR provides a substantial opportunity for cost savings and efficiency gains